HULL'S BIG HUMBUG.

STORY OF HOW THE CARDIFF GIANT WAS MADE.

The Originator of the Petrified Swindle Describes His Operations—Making Money by Exhibition and Still More by Selling Out Opportunely.

George Hull, now a resident of West Superior, Wis., in whose fertile brain the Cardiff giant hoax originated, was here the other day, and to a reporter gave the story of that humbug as follows:

"In 1867 I was over in Iowa, near Fort Dodge, dealing in gypsum. Looking over one of the large pieces, which seemed to be in the shape of a man, I got interested in the dark lines which looked very much, indeed, like the veins in the limbs of a human being. A grand scheme struck me, or I struck it. I secured the largest, most solid piece to be found, and shipped it to Chicago. After some time I got hold a man said to be a first-class marble cutter. He was a splendid designer and carver. I saw some of his designs in marble. I told him my scheme was to get out of the block of gypsum the petrified remains of a tremendous giant.

"The fellow 'caught on' in a moment, and could see in it the grandest scheme in the world. Both of us studied over the prospect for some time. The artist drew all sorts of plans, took measurements, and the like. By and by we got the idea to a 'T.' When the arms and hands were marked out the veins showed up in fine style—you never saw anything more complete in your life. They were also visible in the temples and forehead. It cost me a heap, though, to keep the artist at his work. He had my secret, and handled me as he pleased. Sometimes he'd get on a spree for days or weeks. Several months passed before the concern was finished. It was a grand piece of work. The artist put on it an ancient appearance—there was an antiquity about it that was really marvelous. I boxed it and shipped it eastward as a block of marble. Its weight was 2,990 pounds. I took charge of the 'great wonder.'

BURYING THE "GIANT."

"At first I did not know exactly what I would do to bring it before the people. When I reached New York state I seized upon a plan of burying the 'giant' in a secluded spot—a romantic nook by a mountain side. I finally selected Cardiff, a village on the Onondaga creek, Onondaga county, twelve or fifteen miles south of Syracuse. I confided my secret to a lone farmer. He appeared to be all right in the matter. I gave him money and promised him more. We dug a grave by the river, and as luck would have it—for protraction purposes—at the depth of about six feet we struck pure, moving water. The 'giant' was inclosed in a rough case and deposited in the grave. No one but the farmer, his wife and myself knew of this transaction. The agreement was made between us that in one year the farmer should accidentally find the 'giant.' Word would reach me; I would make a great ado about it and take the people to the spot—taking care to lose my way several times before reaching said spot.

"The agreement worked all right. News of the finding of petrified remains of a human being near Cardiff was spread over the neighborhood like wildfire, and in a day or two newspaper men were there, and then the whole world knew of it. I purchased the petrified remains and proceeded forthwith to erect a tent over the grave, the remains staying undisturbed. Hundred and then thousands visited the place. I charged a fee, of course, to get inside the tent, just to pay expenses. In a few days the crowds could not be accommodated. In one week, soon after the 'discovery,' I took in $2,200. The rush kept increasing. The most scientific men of the country were present. They made critical examinations of the 'giant' as it lay in its resting place. I remember one old gentleman, a noted geologist, telling the assemblage in all sincerity how this giant, so many hundred years before, had evidently strode over the Onondaga mountains and rested in the valleys.

LEAKING OUT OF THE SECRET.

"After a few months I began to mistrust that there had been a 'leak' somewhere, and I questioned the old farmer about it. He appeared to be a little afraid that his 'old woman had let the cat out of the bag!' He said she could never keep her mouth still. So I began to think I had better sell out if an opportunity offered. Soon some men from New York City were anxious to take a share in the 'giant.' I sold a third interest to them for $30,000 cash. Soon after this I sold my remaining interest for a good sum and went out of the business."

Mr. Hull took a hearty laugh and added: "When I had no more to do with the concern, the old lady in question told the whole secret, just as I had told the old man. The fellows who run the show had to pull up and travel with the 'giant.' I saw it under canvas in many places. They did very well out of it. You saw it out this way, didn't you?"

Mr. Hull was informed that the "Cardiff Giant" was exhibited in Madison, but the people here little thought that it was the production of a man who had only a few years before been transacting business in this city.

"Well," said Mr. Hull, "that's the history of the 'Cardiff Giant' as near as I can remember."

Mr. Hull is a man of intelligence, a good story teller, full of fun, and is 64 years of age, but he does not appear to be over 55. He is a native of the state of Connecticut. He admitted that the affair was a regular "Yankee trick, like some of Barnum's.—Madison (Wis.) Letter.

Independence in One's Own Home.

In this life we have to pay very much for our independence, to be allowed a separate home whose doors we can close upon the world, to have a little piece of ground which we can till, to indulge the luxury of private thinking and of candid speaking. He who sells out these inestimable rights at the dawn of life is like a man who disfigures his hand with India ink while he is yet a boy, and after he becomes a person of some influence there stands forever the evidence of his low tastes when he was a lad.—George Alfred Townsend.

Quantity and Quality of Maple Sap.

The location of a maple tree has much to do with the increase or decrease not only in quantity but in the quality of its sap. Trees standing on low land, moist, and having a black, mucky and rich soil, will run a large amount of watery sap, having less than 2 per cent. of sugar, and that of dark quality. On the other hand, trees standing on high, dry, and ledgy ground will yield very sweet sap, having 3 or 4 per cent. of sugar in it, and will make a very white product.—Demorest's Monthly.

ANECDOTE OF HORACE GREELEY.

An Unpublished Incident Concerning the Election Returns of 1854.

The New York Tribune referred the other day to the small vote by which Myron H. Clark was elected governor in 1854. The allusion reminds me of an unpublished incident which occurred in the Tribune office during the suspense of counting returns of that so long doubted election. Greeley was a careful political statistician, and nothing disgusted and enraged him more than an error in figures. He had received returns from certain western towns, and had partially tabulated them, when he glanced at the early edition of The Express, the Whig paper, and saw that evidently the same figures had been forwarded to the journal. So he ceased his own work and clipped out The Express table as published and sent it to the composing-room. Next morning, on looking over The Tribune, Mr. Greeley saw that there was an important error in the returns. He found that he had clipped the table from The Express. In a great rage he went into the composing-room and wanted to know who the —— had set up that matter. Rooker examined the proofs and found that a part of it was set by old Maj. Moulton, and the rest by James Bayard, who had been in the office more than a dozen years. He charged on Bayard's tripod enough to know something. Look that."

"What's the matter with it?"

"Matter! Why, great Scott, it's wrong!" [Only Mr. Greeley was known to say "great Scott."]

"Which part?" asked Bayard.

"First 'take'—right there. See?"

"Mr. Greeley, I didn't do that."

"You lie! Who did?" was the absurd impatient response of Mr. Greeley.

Bayard said he believed Major Moulton set up the next "take." Mr. Greeley once assaulted the culprit: "Major, you've been a printer over forty years, and ought to know something about typesetting. Here you've made a blank fool of yourself and me!" The major examined the paper, blushed and said he was sorry and would follow copy.

"'Followed copy!' 'Followed copy!'" mimicked the employer, angrily. "That's what you always say when you make a blunder. We'll see! Come into the proof room. There's a blankety-blanked jackass lying around this office somewhere that ought to be kicked from here to Sing-Sing. I'll see, now, whether it's you or Clark!"

Clark, the proof reader, brought out the copy, and the moment Mr. Greeley's eye fell on the reprint cut from the Express, he recollected that he had not finished the table himself. He collapsed, called Bayard into the group, turned around to the window and exclaimed: "Here! Kick me Kick me! Kick me!"—W. A. Croffut's Letter.

An Ingenious Clock in Kerry.

A cottage industry has sprung up in Celtic Kerry, which needs only to be known to secure prompt orders from all civilized lands. The Kerry peasants, like all the Swiss, have taken to clock-making, and the native ingenuity of the race is wonderfully displayed in some of the improvements they have designed. The most remarkable is the escapement used for the "alibi" clock. This indispensible requisite in the moonlighter's household has to the inexperienced eye the appearance of a rather clumsy cottage timepiece of the ordinary pattern. It is always wrong, both with hands and bell, and the errors of the two are quite irreconcilable.

That, however, is the beauty of it. When the boys are on "a job" some practiced witness sits snugly by the turf-fire boiling the pot "agin they come in." He smokes his dudeen quietly, and has his eye and ear intent upon the clock. The party come home from their night's work and refresh themselves with a carouse and a game of spoil-five. At the trial the witness has three several time scales to pick and choose from as the exigencies of the alibi demand. He has the true time, which he knows from his neighbors; he has the time indicated by the hands of the alibi clock; and, thirdly, the time indicated by the bell of it, and no dexterity of cross-examination can shake his testimony. It was 12. The clock struck. It was 11? He happened to look at the clock. "It was 10?" Paddy Higgins came for a live coal and told him so. A brisk trade would follow the advertisement of this admirable invention. Advertisement, however, is just what the owners perversely avoid.—Cor. St. James Gazette.

Temptations of a Reporter's Life.

Another temptation of the newspaper profession is the great allurement that surrounds them. Every occupation and profession has temptations peculiar to itself, and the newspaper profession is not an exception. The great draft, as you know, is on the nervous forces, and the brain is racked. The blundering political speech must read well for the sake of the party, and so the reporter or the editor has to make it read well, although every sentence was a catastrophe to the English language. The reporter must hear all that an audible speaker, who thinks it is vulgar to speak out, says; and it must be right the next morning or the next night in the papers, though the night before the whole audience sat with its hand behind its ear, in vain trying to catch it. This man must go through killing night work. He must go into heated assemblages and into unventilated audience-rooms that are enough to take the life out of him. He must visit court-rooms which are almost always disgusting with rum and tobacco. He must expose himself at the fire. He must write in lurid alley ways. Added to all that, he must have hasty mastication and irregular habits. To bear up under this tremendous nervous strain they are tempted to artificial stimulus, and how many thousands have gone down under that pressure God only knows.—Dr. Talmage.

When Liszt Joked the Czar.

Many years ago, while in Russia, Liszt was commanded to play before the late Alexander II. at the palace of Peterhoff. During the performance, whilst Liszt was in the act of improvising some sublime melody, his majesty held converse with the empress and other members of the imperial family, this in a sufficiently loud tone to irritate in no small degree the nerves of the great master. Liszt suddenly stopped, and the emperor, noticing the general silence, requested the executant to go on. Liszt rose from his seat, and, making a profound bow to the emperor, said: "Sire, when kings speak all should be silent." The czar was quick to catch a witty sally, felt the sting, and the great musician was hauded his passport the following morning, the meaning of which implied a courteous request to cross the frontier of ouce.—Max O'Rell in Chicago Times.

closed by a rough, low fence and furnished with a well and a few rose bushes, which seem to find life very hard, forms the front yard. The back yard is generally occupied by "garden sass," upon the growth of which much pains are bestowed. These kitchen gardens fared badly this year. A high tide, which occurred recently, flooded a great many of them and ruined them.

The "natives" are honest, kindly disposed, reticent, and leisure-loving. When asked how people managed to live on so barren a spot, one of the fishermen replied that they throve by fleecing strangers, and that when there were no strangers they turned to fleecing one another. There is no court, no jail, no physician, and no regular minister of the gospel on the reef. Crime is unknown and liquor is prohibited. Some of the fishermen, however, are wont to make merry when they go to Elizabeth City, but this aside, the morals of the Hatteras people are quite unimpeachable. Many of the men belong to a sort of a religio-social club, and are known as "Bright Jewels." If a visit is made out of the fishing season one may find reason to complain of the dishes served up at dinner. On several consecutive days a visitor's dinner consisted of hot biscuit, boiled cabbage and honey. It is not improved by the addition of the famous or infamous yaupon or "black drink" of the Carolinas, which is a common beverage here. Every householder makes his own yaupon tea. A large hole is dug in the sand, into which is thrown a layer of twigs of the yaupon bush. Next comes a layer of hot stones, then more yaupon twigs and more stones, and so on until the hole is filled. The half-charred leaves and stems are finally taken out and placed in barrels, and the tea is ready for use.

A PORPOISE FACTORY.

The most considerable event which has taken place at Hatteras for a long time has been the establishment of a porpoise factory by some Wilmington capitalists. As a regularly organized industry, the business is new to the country. The fishermen caught more or less porpoise every winter, but have never done any more than to try out from their blubber a small quantity of oil. The new company, however, has purchased special machinery and imported skilled workmen from Europe, and proposes to make leather, oil, and fertilizers. No leather has been placed on the market thus far. That from young individuals has a curious "pile" like velvet and is very beautiful. It may perhaps be used in upholstering in place of plush, than which it would be far more durable. The porpoise appear off the beach nearly every day, and the fishery is prosecuted daily unless the sea is running too high. Only the strongest net will hold porpoises, and when frightened they will dart about with inconceivable rapidity and strike against the nets with great force. They are first impounded in a very large net, and then afterward brought to the beach by a sweep seine made of strong twine.

It is a strange and exciting scene when sixty or eighty of these powerful creatures, each eight or nine feet long are being pulled in toward the beach. They struggle desperately and make a continual piping sound like the squealing of rats. Many become entangled in the net and are drowned, but the majority have to be killed after they are drawn out of the water. Although the fishermen persist in calling them fish, they are, of course, true milk-giving mammalia. The milk is not unpalatable, but very rich, and with a flavor like cocoanut milk. Although the winter has been very unfavorable a large number of porpoises have been taken. The season is now just closed. The fishermen stay in their camp on the beach every day from dawn until sunset, whether any "fish" appear or not. They are warned of their approach by spies stationed half a mile north and south of the camp. The men say that the fishery is "no fun," which means that it is exceedingly laborious.—New York Times.

A Church for Personal Comfort.

In a discourse the other evening Rev. Dr. P., a member of the general assembly, related that he once saw a church, small, but built in the very finest and most expensive style of architecture. He asked what church that was, and received the reply that it was the Pullman Palace Car church. "A few of the wealthy people," said his informant, "built the church to enjoy themselves and be comfortable, but it is not meant for the lame, the maimed, the halt, and the blind to ride in."—Pioneer Press "Listener."

A WORD TO THE PROPERTY-OWNERS OF SONOMA.

that the foundation of the trouble was the criminal intimacy of Mrs. John Bailiff with the deceased; that she visited his office on numerous occasions without any known or particular business; that she had veiled herself heavily and met him clandestinely at night; that she was the first to make these advances, being no doubt smitten by the fine appearance of the man, who was over six feet in height, splendidly formed, weighing over 200 pounds, the picture of strength and health. It is current also that Noon made a remark to a friend that "a bit of female loveliness" had visited him only a few nights previous.

It is not known how long the parties have been intimate, but it is supposed to be but a few weeks. There are

SEVERAL STRANGE OCCURRENCES

Connected with this affair, and one of these is the reported manner in which the husband obtained positive proof of his wife's infidelity. It is said that Noon addressed a letter to the woman, whose given name is the same as her daughter's. The latter obtained the missive, that was to wreck the joys of the family circle, through the postoffice. Thinking it was intended for her, she

WHEW!

The complaint sworn to and filed by John F. Naughton, contesting the election of A. P. Moore to the office of Auditor and Recorder, charges malconduct on the part of the Board of Judges of every voting precinct in the county, in all numbering some 78 election officers. These officers of election are directly accused of purposely counting Mr. Naughton out and then certifying to the correctness of the returns, thus adding perjury to their other crime. No doubt an occasional rascal succeeds in getting on an election board, but that the entire force of 78 Judges and Inspectors of election in the recent contest in this county, and taken from the ranks of our representative men, should be guilty of such rascality as charged by the contestant in his complaint is a staggerer. We understand that Mr. Naughton's complaint is drawn up in the usual legal form provided in such cases, and that in order to get a recount his charges must be sweeping. Be this as it may, it will have a tendency to cast a stigma upon the reputations of many good and honest men.

Sonoma precinct comes in for her share of these charges in the following language:

That the Board of Judges at Sonoma, one of the precincts in said county, purposely miscounted the ballots at said precinct, and by said miscount made it appear, and so testified by their returns from said precinct, that A. P. Moore received one hundred and fifty-two votes at said precinct for said office, and plaintiff, John F. Naughton, received but one hundred and sixty-four votes thereat for said office, when, as this contestant is informed and believes and so charges the fact to be, that said A. P. Moore only received one hundred and thirty votes at said precinct for said office, and that plaintiff, John F. Naughton, received at said precinct one hundred and eighty-six votes for said office.

THE official vote of the State, after a lapse of twenty-one days, has now been declared, with the following result for State officers: Governor, Bartlett(D); Lieutenant Governor, Waterman (R.); Secretary of State, Dunn(D.); Treasurer, Harold (D.); Attorney General, Johnson (D.); Superintendent of Public Instruction, Hoitt(R.); Surveyor-General, Reichert (R.); Clerk Supreme Court, Spencer (D.); Supreme Court Justices, Patterson (R.); McFarland (R.); Temple (D.).

ANOTHER murder occurred in San Francisco at an early hour yesterday morning. The victim in this case, Frank Floris, a Spaniard, being stabbed to death by a fellow countryman named De Maetro. We think it about time a stop was put to this man-for-breakfast-every-morning business. Murder seems to be in the air in the Bay City, but for all that a few wholesome hangings would be bound to purify its social atmosphere.

THE RAILROAD QUESTION.

As heretofore announced, a meeting of citizens will take place to-day in this place to consider the proposition of giving substantial aid and encouragement to the Santa Rosa and Benicia Railroad Company. The amount of $80,000 is asked to insure the completion and operation of the road. Of this sum $47,000 has already been subscribed by business men in Santa Rosa and Benicia, leaving a balance of only $33,000 yet to be secured. To-day Sonoma will be asked to contribute her mite, and we trust not in vain.

There are no two questions about the immense advantages that will accrue to the people of Sonoma Valley and the Glen Ellen district by the building and equipment of a railroad over the projected line. Property valuations would be increased two-fold and our population largely augmented by small farmers. In this manner not only would the real estate owner be benefited, but the tradesman, artizan and laboring man would also come in for their share of the good times that would be bound to follow the construction of this road, not to mention our farmers and orchardists, who have struggled so long against the disadvantages of getting their products to market at a fair profit.

Viewed from this standpoint we we can see no reason, unless it be that of penuriousness, why those who have the means should not do something to push this enterprise along, provided always that it is bona fide in its nature, and we see nothing at this date that would justify a doubt on that score. This is made manifest by the fact that the projectors of the road obligate themselves to forever abandon the rights of way donated and do not ask that any money be paid over to them until the road is built and passenger and freight trains running over the same—that is to say, eighteen months from the 1st day of next May.

This proposition is reasonable enough for any man. For instance, an individual is asked to aid the enterprise by subscribing a certain amount of money. If he consents, he gives his note for whatever sum he sees fit, with the following stipulation, which is inserted in the blank form furnished by the company: "This note shall be due and payable when said railroad is in operation for freight and passenger traffic between Santa Rosa and Benicia, California, and it is herein provided that unless work is commenced on or before the first day of May, 1887, and said road in operation within eighteen months thereafter, this obligation shall be void and of no effect."

This means no road, no pay, and surely ought to be all the protection the maker of the note can reasonably ask. He does not engage in a game of chance, but in a legitimate business undertaking, and a mighty safe one, too, at that.

MUCH interest is excited in New York medical circles by the successful issue of a remarkable operation performed last week by Sir William McCormac of the Royal College of Surgeons. Tuesday, last week, a slater fell from the scaffold of a house, a distance of 18 feet, to the ground. He was carried to the St. Thomas Hospital, suffering extreme agony. No bones were broken, but Wednesday, Sir William McCormac, in diagnosing the case, came to the conclusion that the bladder had been ruptured. The man was put under an anesthetic, an incision made into the abdomen and the diagnosis verified. The contents of the stomach and perinæum were withdrawn. The bladder was drawn out, suture made, the organs all replaced, the stomach thoroughly cleansed with antiseptics and the incision closed. The patient emerged from his insensible condition relieved of pain, and Thursday was in a comfortable condition and to-day is declared practically out of danger.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Preparing for the Coming Session of Congress.

The Ups and Downs of Life—A Question of Absorbing Interest.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15, 1886.

The Congressional population of Washington is increasing daily, and up at the Capitol there are many indications that the opening of the session is an event in the near future. A few of the Committee rooms have been opened for business already, and here, certain Senatorial chairmen, among them Senators Edmunds and Morrill of Vermont, spend some hours daily. Chairman Randall, that staunch protectionist who presides over the House Appropriations Committee, is also busy at his Committee room desk. He is determined to have a bill ready by the time Congress meets, provided he can get a quorum of his men together long enough for that purpose. Because of the precedence that is allowed all money bills, he may drop his bill upon any measure of revenue reform that may venture to lift its head.

It is a wonder that Mr. Randall, with his Appropriation extinguisher watching for somebody trying to reduce the tariff, has not served for a cartoon. In a nation of politicians who divide themselves under the banners of Democracy and Republicanism, Mr. Randall enjoys the unique distinction of being classed as a Republican by many Democrats, and as a Democrat by most Republicans. He has claimed to exercise in his committee room more power than the Chief Magistrate in the Executive Mansion, and to have made Presidents, even if he has himself never occupied the White House. Mr. Randall's Washington residence is on Capitol Hill, only a few squares from the Capitol. This he occupies during the sessions of Congress, but when they close he goes with his large family to his country home near Paoli, about seventeen miles from Philadelphia, where he leads a quiet, domestic life.

The President is in close retirement now. He sees no unimportant callers and is busy on his message to Congress. Each of the Cabinet officers has laid before him the advance sheets of their annual reports, and Col. Lamont has been assisting him in arranging the matter. But now the President is doing double duty, for his faithful secretary was summoned on Saturday to the bedside of his father, who was seriously ill.

The President's country home, which is no longer "Red Top" but "Oak View," after the owner's own christening, is expected to be ready for occupancy in about two weeks. The President and Mrs. Cleveland do not intend to reside there now, nor do they contemplate living there permanently at all. For the present, "Oak View" is to be the residence of Mrs. Cleveland's mother, and it will always be available for the President and his wife to go and come as they like. It would be an admirable resort for the President now, while he wants privacy for the preparation of his message. He could shut himself up there without being intruded upon, as the place is four miles from the White House.

The ups and downs of life find many illustrations in the Government departments here. In the past few days a grandson of President Tyler entered on duty as a watchman at the Interior Department. He is forty-six years old, was educated at the Virginia Military Institute, and served in the Confederate Army as an officer in Gen. Jackson's corps. The reverses that come to the fortunes of men are facts of every day experience, of course, and it is not surprising to find men who have held high positions under the State and National Governments discharging in their old age the rather humble duties of watchmen here. But it is rather a remarkable thing when a number of such cases may be selected from the personnel of the watch force of one Department, as is the case.

The question of absorbing interest just now to the Republican Senators who are here, is whether Mr. Van Wyck is to be re-elected. If he is to hold the balance of power jointly with Mr. Riddleberger, the erratic Senator from Virginia, they admit that it will be extremely uncomfortable. The Senate is now composed of thirty-seven straight out Republicans, and these two above mentioned Senators, who vote with either party as it suits them. Consequently the issue in Nebraska will be watched with very great interest. There are now as many Senators as Representatives in the city, although there are but seventy-six members in a full upper House while the lower consists of three huudred and twenty-five.

COUNTY ITEMS.

The County Teachers' examination will take place in Santa Rosa on December 7th.

The contested election case of Naughton vs. Moore, will be called in the Superior Court, Wednesday, December 1st.

The Sabastopol people have subscribed $15,000 to the Santa Rosa and Benicia Railroad Company.

Forty-seven thousand dollars have already been subscribed by parties in Santa Rosa and Benicia toward the new railroad project.

The Graves malpractice case has at last came to an end, Judge Pressley having refused a new trial in the case. It is not likely that an appeal will be taken.

John Canepa of Petaluma had his right cheek torn open on Sunday, from the ear to the mouth, by the horn of a vicious cow. He was after a calf when the mother knocked him down.

The ten thousand-dollar residence of F. N. Delaney, near Healdsburg, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The family had barely time to escape in their night-clothes. There was no insurance on the building, which was one of the handsomest in that section of the county.

Bailiff and Reed, the slayers of Noon, have been admitted to bail, the latter in the sum of $10,000 and the former $20,000. The bonds were readily furnished, a number of the most prominent men of Santa Rosa acting as sureties.

Jasper O'Farrell Rains, charged with rape, failed to put in an appearance when his case was called in Justice Seawell's Court, Santa Rosa, the latter part of last week, and as he has not "showed up" since, he has undoubtedly taken "leg bail."

The jury in the case of Martin Joyce, the Petaluma horse thief, brought in a verdict of guilty of grand larceny Wednesday afternoon. No evidence was put in by the defense. He will receive sentence Monday, at which time his accomplice, John Gilfoyle, will be sentenced.

Sheriff Baker of Stanislaus county arrived in Petaluma Sunday evening from Gurneville, where he captured George Brown and Ernest Elliott, charged with robbery, committed on October 1st at Crows Landing, in that county, at which time a store at that place was robbed of $142 in coin beside a number of shotguns, revolvers and knives. The Sheriff accompanied by his captives took the train for San Francisco Monday. —Petaluma Imprint.

A Popular Receipt.

[Record-Union.]

In September this paper published a receipt for chow-chow, the making of which by a prominent lady of this county has fairly made her famous, and brought the result of her skill greatly in demand. If too late in the season to put up the chow-chow this receipt can be preserved for future use. It is, we are assured, essential to success that the exact formula be followed, even to the "red" onion. The chow-chow is thus made: Two dozen large green tomatoes, one large red onion; slice; green peppers, a half-dozen; mix, salt and let stand four hours. Then spread and drain four hours. Put in a porcelain pot, and pour over enough white-wine vinegar to cover, with one cup of brown sugar, one large table-spoonful of ground mustard, two table-spoonfuls mustard seed, one tea-spoonful celery seed, one tablespoonful mace. Boil all in a porcelain thoroughly. Seal hot.

The Major's Platform.

"I understand Major J... running for the Legislature... county as a temperance ma...

"Yes, and it looks as though he was going to have a big majority."

"Well, that's curious. The major can get away with more liquor than any man I know. What are his claims for the support of the temperance voters?"

"He says he does more to destroy liquor and put it away from the sight of young men than any other half dozen men in the county."

"He does? Well, by thunder, I guess he's about right. That's the major's strong point."

Did you ever pick up a paper published in a strange town, and see a large showy advertisement, without thinking to yourself or saying to your neighbor: "That man must do an immense business," or forming a resolution to visit that firm at the first opportunity? There is nothing like it; and when you put an advertisement in a paper don't imagine you have donated so much to keep the editor out of the poor-house.—Ex.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phœbe Chesly, Patterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain." Land Law Decisions.

A late Washington dispatch says: In the case of the United States vs. Walter B. Richardson, involving a pre-emption cash entry made at the San Francisco Land Office some years ago, Secretary Lamar has directed the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue an alias notice to the entryman of a new hearing in the controversy. A special agent had reports that no improvments had been made upon the place, and furthermore, that Richardson was not of age when he made the entry. Richardson was summoned to show cause why the entry should not be suspended, but did not appear, and the case went against him by default. It was afterward discovered that the man had not been given sufficient notice, as is contemplated by the law, and it then became an important question for the Secretary to decide whether or not the proceedings that had been taken could all be rendered null and void. He has decided, and Richardson will be given another chance. The decision is a very lengthy one, and involves the reading of a number of other cases establishing a precedent to govern such matters.

The Parent of Insomnia.

The parent of insomnia or wakefulness is in nine cases out of ten a dyspeptic stomach. Good digestion gives sound sleep, indigestion interferes with it. The brain and stomach sympathize. One of the prominent symptoms of a weak state of the gastric organs is a disturbance of the great nerve entrepot, the brain. Invigorate the stomach, and you restore equilibrium to the great centre. A most reliable medicine for the purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is far preferable to mineral sedatives and powerful narcotics, which, though they may for a time exert a soporific influence upon the brain, soon cease to act, and invariably injure the tone of the stomach. The Bitters, on the contrary, restore activity to the operations of that all important organ, and their beneficent influence is reflected in sound sleep and a tranquil state of the nervous system. A wholesome impetus is likewise given to the action of the liver and bowels by its use.

The Agua Caliente Springs Hotel, having been enlarged and refurnished is now one of the most elegant and attractive summer and winter resorts on the coast. Visitors will find the house supplied with every modern convenience, and no pains will be spared to make their stay pleasant and comfortable. Prices to correspond with the dull times. *

Mr. Ferdinand Grothaus an old resident of this place, has returned after an absence of three years, and taken charge of his old place of business, the Pioneer Saloon. Mr. G. is a polite and affable gentleman and during his former residence here made many warm friends, who accorded him a right warm welcome on his return. The saloon under his charge will be conducted, as it always has been, in a genteel and orderly manner. See advertisement in another column.

The Odd Fellows.

Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F., can now boast of one of the most elegantly furnished lodge rooms in the interior of the State. It has recently been fitted up with handsome Brussels carpet, expensive upholstered furniture, new chandeliers, draperies, etc., at a cost reaching well nigh a thousand dollars. The lodge is constantly growing, two and three new members being initiated every month. Saturday night last, after the business of the lodge had been transacted, the members, together with a number of invited guests from Napa and Santa Rosa lodges, repaired to the Union Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet awaited them. Some fifty Odd Fellows were present, and the lodge guests were entertained as only Sonoma Lodge knows how to entertain. Toasts were given and responded to and a most enjoyable evening was whiled away. It was well after midnight before those present left for their respective homes, and thus was another added to the many enjoyable reunions had by the Sonoma Odd Fellows.

Second Grade Certificates.

The County Board of Education met in Santa Rosa last Saturday, and among other business transacted, the following resolution, pertaining to second grade certificates, was passed: "Resolved, that on and after January 1, 1887, 85 per cent. of the aggregated credits shall be required to secure a second grade certificate, provided, that in case of application for renewal of second grade certificates that have been granted heretofore the Board may, in its discretion, allow sufficient credits for successful experience in teaching to bring the standard to the percentage required under this resolution."

Basalt Blocks.

The Santa Rosa "Republican" says that all the basalt blocks used in street paving come from quarries near that town. It also claims that the blocks now being used in paving the streets of Stockton were shipped from that city. In both of these statements it errs. H. C. Manuel of this place furnished the greater number of blocks to pave the streets of Stockton, 100,000 having been shipped from this place to supply the order. For the enlightenment of our contemporary we will state that Sonoma boasts of one single quarry that turns out more blocks in one year than all of Santa Rosa's combined.

The Literary Entertainment.

The fifth entertainment of the Clay Literary Society was given at Union Hall last Thursday evening, and as usual brought out a crowded house, and thanks to the united efforts of the members, was a financial success. The evening's programe was well carried out. Particularly was this so of the "Plantation Scene," many of the songs introduced therein being excellently rendered and loudly applauded. After the literary exercises the floor was cleared and dancing indulged in until near "daylight in the morning."

Bonds of County Officers.

The County officers elect, in accordance with the new County Government bill, have filed their bonds in the following amounts: Sheriff, $60,000; Clerk, $25,000; Auditor and Recorder, $30,000; District Attorney, $15,000; Treasurer and Tax Collector, $150,000; Assessor, $20,000; Surveyor, $10,000; Superintendent of Schools, $5,000; Coroner and Public Administrator, $35,000. Sureties on each of these bonds must qualify in double the amount thereof. The newly elected officers will assume the duties of their respective positions on January 1st. The Sheriff, Clerk, Recorder, Surveyor, District Attorney, Coroner and Treasurer will each hold office for two years; the Assessor and Superintendent of Schools, four years.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Webb left for Tulare last Thursday, where they have gone to reside.

Fred Duhring Jr., who came up from Berkeley last Wednesday, will return to the University Monday.

Mr. Tom Wilson and wife came down from Cloverdale to visit their father, W. P. Wilson, on Thursday evening last.

Hon. J. K. Luttrell, W. H. Byington, J. E. Orr and other speakers will address the railroad meeting to-day.

Sheriff-elect Colgan was in town Saturday evening last. He came down from Santa Rosa to attend the Odd Fellows' banquet.

Baby falls and bumps its head,

HEAVY BONDS.

Coroner and Public Administrator Tivnen's Bondsmen.

On Monday last John Tivnen, Coroner and Public Administrator-elect, filed his bonds with the following sureties for the later office: Robert Howe, $20,000; Robert Hall, $10,000; C. F. Leiding, $5,000; H. Weyl, $5,000; S. Schocken, $5,000; W. K. Rogers, $15,000. For Coroner the following bond was given: Thos. S. Glaister, $5,000; L. Litzius, $2,500; F. Duhring, $2,500.

Mr. Tivnen also filed his bond as Notary Public, with Thos. S. Glaister for $5,000, and Geo. H. H. Cornelius for $5,000. The entire amount aggregates $80,000.

We were prevented from making a more extended mention of Thursday night's entertainment by Clay Literary Society owing to Friday being our press day.

Appearance of Cardinal Manning.

Cardinal Manning is the very dream of emaciation physically, and of zeal mentally. His face is more than gaunt; it is spectral in its thinness. The ridge of cheekbone from ear to ear stands out like a finger laid upon the flesh. The hollows about the drawn, thin-lipped mouth are cavernous. The deep, weird eyes look out from caverns. The upper forehead bulges as if it would force apart the tight-stretched skin. It is a face which the painter would seek for utmost impressiveness of effect in a death-bed scene. Yet this wonderful old man is the hardest working clergyman, publicist and administrator in Great Britain.—Boston Budget.

A Photograph of Ben Butler.

Mr. B. F. Butler, trying a case in the United States court in Philadelphia, is thus photographed by The Times of that city: "He has grown more portly of late years and his girth now exceeds the longest sword-belt The bald expanse of his No. 8 head has broadened a trifle, but the outlying fringe of gray hair is as long and as thick as ever. In his buttonhole he wore a yellow rose, and when he left the room to return to the Continental he jauntily perched on his head the dingy slouch hat, far more aged in its appearance than its hale-looking owner."—Exchange.

Felt the Effects of the Failure.

Mr. Coldcash—Say, have you heard the news?

Smithers—No, what is it?

Coldcash—Why, the Argentine bank has gone up.

Smithers—Oh, the scoundrels! I might have known such a rascally set of bank directors would rob the depositors.

Coldcash—Why did you have any money in it?

Smithers—Every cent I made over to my wife before I failed the first time. Oh, the scoundrels!—Chicago Rambler.

AYER'S PILLS. Sugar-Coated Cathartic

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them, with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Esling, Richmond, Va. ††

SOME MINING HISTORY.

How Some of Our Rich Men Became Wealthy.

[S. F. Cor. Sacramento Bee.]

There is always something romantic and interesting connected with the discovery of the principal mines of the world, and the reader never tires of the recital of the little incidents and adventures leading to the finding of a big bonanza. The famous mines of Potosi were discovered by an Indian herder In chasing a mountain goat he pulled a bush out of the ground, to the fibers of which a quantity of silver globules were attached. He concealed his discovery for a season, but his sudden display of wealth excited the attention of his Spanish masters, and under torture he was forced to reveal the locality of the precious deposit. These mines have yeilded over the sum of $2,000,000,000. To appreciate the magnitude of this sum, I may say that it exceeds the amount taken from the Bonanza mines of the Comstock lode twenty times—that is, for every dollar the Bonanza yielded the mines of Potosi yielded; or, in Western parlance, "Potosi has seen the dollar of the Bonanzas and gone nineteen dollars better." No wonder Spain became such a wealthy country in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. There were lots of Floods, Mackays and other bonanza kings in those days. The enormous metalic wealth poured into the coffers of Spain raised her to the dignity of a first-class power. Her infantry, recruited from the daring spirits of all nations, was invincible, and her navy carried her flag to every part of the globe. Prescott gives an interesting history of Spain during this period.

THEY CALLED HIM CRAZY.

In 1858, Comstock, of the Comstock lode, visited San Francisco and endeavored to enlist capital to develop his mines. He went up and down Front street begging our merchant princes of that day to aid him, saying he had a mountain of silver on the eastern slope of the Sierras. They laughed at him, and he received the name of "Crazy Comstock." He returned to his mountain home without a dollar, and it was reserved for Grass Valley men—Judge Walsh, George Hearst, Joe Clark and others—to be the cheif instruments in making the wealth of the famous lode known to the world.

HISTORIAL MINING INCIDENTS.

In 1868, a Shoshone Indian, in consideration of a square meal and a bottle of whisky, guided John Turner, Appleton and others to the summit of Treasure Hill, and there unfolded to their gaze the riches of Eberhardt mine. Some of this was so rich that a nail could be driven into it as into a bar of lead. From a chamber of this mine, big enough to turn a stage coach and horses around in, over $5,000,000 was extraced. The Indian has been an important factor in mine discoveries, both in South America and our continent. The term 'grub stake' doubtless originated in White Pine from the fact that the discoveries were made through the agency of a meal to an Indian, and it is now applied to all miners who are fitted out with provisions by a speculator for a prospecting tour.

The great wealth of Tabor, the millionaire miner of Colorado, arose from $175 worth of grub furnished by him to some Leadville miners. These men discovered the celebrated Little Pittsburg, Chrysolite and other mines, and brought into prominence a camp which has added nearly $100,000,000 to the world's wealth since 1879. In 1879, Geoge B. Robinson was a storekeeper in Leadville, with a stock of goods valued at about $5,000. One day he "grub staked" a miner with $60 worth of provisions. The prospector sallied forth and soon after discovered the celebrated Robinson mine, of Ten-Mile district, near Leadville, and Robinson realized $1,000,000 from his investment of the trifling sum of $60.

These incidents are all historical and could be indefinately continued. Mining is like whale fishing. and the good old rule of "there are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught" has the same application.

In 1878 southeastern Arizona was given over to the red and ruthless Apache, and was supposed to be deficient in mineral wealth. But a daring miner, Edward Shiefflin, penetrated the reigon and brought out the news of good ore and plenty of it. His sole capital was $150, but to-day he is a millionaire. His spirit, is, however, unsubdued. Nevertheless, I do not think that Humboldt's prophecy, that in the North the great matrix of gold is to be found, will ever be verified.

A NEW VIEW OF CONSUMPTION.

And One which Appeals to Common Sense.--Many Curable Cases.

[Medical Stilus.]

"Many persons die of Consumption who could easily be cured," says Dr. S. C. Clark, of Watertown, N. Y., "if they would go at it right. I have a new view of the disease. Consumption is not always of lung origin."

"How so? What is it then?"

"Many cases of consumption are secondary. The disease itself prevails everywhere, but the best practitioners refuse to attribute it entirely to inheritance or the weather. If a person lives in the most favorable climate in the world and has any tendency to lung weakness, if certain conditions exist in the system, that climate, however favorable, will not prevent development of the disease. The disorder in such cases is only a secondary symptom in the lungs of some other ailment, and can never be cured until approached through its source."

"Yes, doctor; but what is the method of approach?"

"If you dip your finger in acid you burn it; do you not?"

"Yes."

"If you wash this burnt finger every second with the acid, what is the result?"

"Why constant inflammation, festering and eventual destruction of the finger."

"Precisely! Now then for my method, which commends itself to the reason and judgment of every skillful practitioner. You know certain acids are developed in the body. Well, if the system is all right these acids are neutralized or utilized and carried out. If the system is run down by excesses, anxiety, continual exposure, or overwork, these acids accumulate in the blood. If there is any natural weakness in the lung, theis acid attacks it, having a natural affinity for it, and if the acid is not neutralized or passed out of the system, it burns, ulcerates and finally destroys the lung. Is this clear?"

"Perfectly! But how do you prevent the accumulation of these acids in the system?"

"Irregularities of the liver and kidneys create this excess of acid and the supply can be cut off only by correcting the wrong action of these organs. The kidneys alone should carry out in quantity, in solution, enough of this acid daily, which, if left in the blood, would kill four men. When the stomach, the liver and the kidneys are all conspiring to increase the acid, the wonder is that weak lungs resist death as long as they do!"

"But you have not told us how you would treat such cases."

"No, but I will. The lungs are only diseased as an effect of this acid or kidney poison in the blood. After having exhausted all authorized remedies to correct this acid condition, I was compelled, in justice to my patients, to use Warner's safe cure; though a proprietary remedy, it is now recognized, I see, by leading physicians, by Presidents of State Boards of Health and by insurance physicians, as a scientific and the only specific for those great organs in which over ninety per cent. of diseases originate or are sustained."

"Is this form of treatment successful?"

"It is wonderfully so, and for that reason I am only too willing that you should announce it to the world of consumptives."

Note by the Publishers:—We have received the above interview from H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y., with the request that we publish it for the good of suffering people. In a foot note to their letter they say:

"The experience of Dr. Clark is not strange to us. In our correspondence we have found that many thousands of people are suffering from what they think is Consumption, whereas the real difficulty is with the liver and kidneys, proven by the fact that when these organs are restored to health by the use of Warner's safe cure, the consumption disappears, and so does uremic or kidney poisoning, which causes so many symptoms of diseases that the human system is subject to. The same may be said of rheumatism, caused by an acid condition of the system. We insist upon what we always have claimed, if you remove the cause, the system will soon perfect the work already begun. Mrs. Rev. Dr. Theodore Wolf, of Gettysburg, Pa., wife of the editor of the Lutheran Quarterly, said her friends thought her 'far gone with Consumption,' but after a thorough treatment with Warner's safe cure, she says: 'I am perfectly well.' We can cite thousands of such cases, but one is enough. If you publish the above article, kindly send us a marked copy."

We gladly give place to the article, for if we can in any way stay the ravages of Consumption, which carries away so many millions yearly, it is our bounden duty so to do.]—Pub.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benfitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Greens' August Flower and Boschees' German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. 1

A Flirt's Narrow Escape.

A few days ago a young woman was leisurely stepping across the Union tracks on Virginia avenue, when, raising her eyes, she saw a good-looking brakeman on a slowly-receding freight-train waving his hand at her. The young woman, who seemed to be of a flirtatious disposition, smiled sweetly and waved her hand at the handsome brakeman who rose from his seat on the brake and again waved his hand, this time with much greater energy than before. The young woman, evidently flattered, acted as if under a charm, while the brakeman continued waving his arms as if possessed. She stopped and fumbled in her pocket for a handkerchief, the man on the car in the meantime appearing almost frantic. At that moment the flagman rushed out and pulled the flirtatious female person aside barely in time to save her from being run over by a backing train.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free Trial Bottles of this standard remedy at Wegner's Drug Store. 4
